About The Museum:

The Bloomingtondale Park District Museum is Bloomingtondale's oldest building. It was built in 1849 as the First Baptist Church of Christ. Visitors today can view the original 1849 ceiling, knotty pine floor, and some of the original glass pane windows. Bloomingtondale Academy took over the property in 1860. In 1892 the building became the center of town serving as both the Township Office and the Town Hall. A jail cell was installed in 1910.

The historic building was sold to the Bloomingtondale Park District in 1965 for the purchase price of $1. The Park District soon began to offer programming to residents at this location. Fine arts and cultural exhibits begin to emerge in the early 80's. A major restoration occurred in 1998 and included an art gallery addition. Additionally, much of the original architecture was restored and refurbished.

The museum is located adjacent to the picturesque Old Town Park, which contains a pavilion available for rent for weddings or other gatherings. Please note: exhibitions in the galleries change on a regular basis and availability of galleries is subject to exhibition schedules and Park District programs. This rental agreement is for the exclusive use of the contracted room only. Public access will be maintained for any galleries containing an exhibition that is not covered in the rental agreement, as well as the washroom facilities.
